DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-5, 16-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Paley 1,971,164 in view of Jennings 4,079,859.

Paley teaches a glass product comprising a main container body 11a with a closed bottom, a secondary container body 19, and a collar 22a. See in particular figure

3. The size of the main container body, the angle of the main body, secondary body and collar all fall within the range set forth in the claims.

Paley discloses the claimed invention except for the angle of the collar to the main container body and the secondary container body being "about 120 degrees". It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to form the angle of the collar to the main container body and the secondary container body at about 120 degrees, since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

Paley teaches the claimed invention except for the container being formed from one piece and the collar extending beyond a cross section of the main container body. Jennings teaches a similar fluid holding container with a main body 1, a secondary body

7 and a collar 7f in which the container is taught as being either formed from separate pieces (see figures 1-14) or formed in one piece (see figure 15) and the collar extends beyond a cross section of the main container body (see figures 1-15). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to form the container of Paley in one piece and with an extended collar in the manner as taught by Jennings since both inventions are directed at providing a means for dispensing measured liquids. It has been held that forming in one piece an article which has formerly been formed in two pieces and put together involves only routine skill in the art. Howard v. Detroit Stove Works, 150 U.S. 164 (1893).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-5 and 16-33 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
